Our nationally recognised CHC43315 Certificate IV in Mental Health will build your skills and knowledge to provide vital community services for individuals experiencing mental health challenges. This course will also prepare you for a role in delivering self-directed, recovery-oriented support, empowering those affected by mental illness and psychiatric disability. You'll learn to implement community-based programs and activities focused on mental health and wellness, making a meaningful difference in the lives of participants and their families.

Mode of assessment

Online assessment

You'll complete short answer questions, long answer questions, scenario-based questions, and multiple-choice questions to show what you know in different ways.

Case studies

You'll complete case study questions that let you apply your knowledge to real-life examples. This gives you a chance to use your skills in a practical context.

Portfolio of evidence

During work placement, you'll collect a portfolio of evidence to show your skills and knowledge. This portfolio will be made up of workplace documents, work samples, notes and meeting minutes.

Work placement assessment

During work placement, you'll be observed and assessed in a real-time working environment or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions.

Third party reports

Sometimes your assessor can't be there to watch you work. Third Party Reports fills that gap by giving your assessor a clear picture of your performance from a supervisor or manager who has observed you in the workplace.
